Fire danger ratings are extreme

By Dale Lunan

Forest rangers in the Drayton Valley area are sitting on a tinderbox, with forest fire danger ratings hovering in the extreme range, according to one official of the Alberta Forest Service.

Franz Munzik, fire watch officer at the Elk River lookout tower, said last week that low humidity and the lack of rain over the last couple of weeks has resulted in an extreme danger of forest fires.

"The trees are dry, the ground is dry and the air is dry—if we get a good dry lightning storm, I would say the chances of us getting quite a few fires would be high," Mr. Munzik said.

Although most of the timber in his area is of the deciduous variety, which doesn't burn too well, Mr. Munzik said any large fire in the sparse coniferous stands could set off blazes in the less flammable deciduous areas.

"It wouldn't even have to be very big—as long as it's close enough to the deciduous, it could jump right over," he said.

Munzik said the danger from man-started fires is quite low at the present time, with on-the-ground fire guardians keeping pretty close tabs on area campgrounds.

He said the danger of man-caused fires in the Brazeau area is quite low, with the campsite there situated on a peninsula of the Brazeau reservoir, and added that the campground at Elk River is not used too much.

"Even when the campers are in those areas, our fire guardians move in after campers have left, to make sure all the cooking fires are put out properly," he said.

The only concern is the danger of dry lightning, and Mr. Munzik added that forecasts are calling for such conditions.

Compounding the dry conditions in the Brazeau forest is the reduced visibility caused by smoke from the Swan Hills fire, which threatened that community last week.

Mr. Munzik said the smoke from the then 7,000 hectare (15,120 acres) fire has been caught in the high air currents, and is being blown down over most of the province.

"Right now (last Wednesday), the visibility out here is down to about eight miles, and that presents a problem with even spotting small fires, should they start," he said.

To counteract the smoky conditions, Mr. Munzik has been spending more time than usual on the ground, checking out likely fire-start areas.

In the event that a small fire is located, Mr. Munzik said a three-man "initial attack crew" is on 24 hour standby alert in Lodgepole, to react to initial reports of forest fires.

"We can usually have them in to the fire area pretty quickly, and if they get to it soon enough, they can usually handle it," he added.

If, however, the fire gets out of control and becomes too much for the three-man crew to handle, the resources of a 10-man crew and helicopter stationed at Shunda, 30 miles east of Nordegg, can be called upon.

These crews, which are located in strategic areas throughout the province's forested areas, were implemented following the disastrous 1980 fire season, in which 1,855 fires burned more than 640,000 hectares (1.5 million acres) at a cost of $35 million.

"We can alert that crew at Shunda within minutes, and they can be out here

Hazardous waste

Area fire hazard

By Dale Lunan

In an effort to stem the tide of anti-hazardous waste publicity, the provincial government is endeavoring to educate the public on the advantages and disadvantages of waste disposal, primarily through a series of public information meetings.

Richard Stringham, manager of public participation programs for the Rural Education Development Association (REDA), says such meetings will likely be held in Drayton Valley, in order that REDA can gather information for the government.

The association has been hired by the provincial department of environment to conduct the public participation program, so as attempt to keep a handle on waste disposal information and planning.

"As far as we are concerned, some type of hazardous waste disposal system is going to be required in the province, and our job is to identify the best possible system and educate the public on what is really happening in waste disposal," Mr. Stringham says.

To further co-ordinate the project, a seven-member hazardous waste disposal team has been established under the auspices of Alberta Environment, and the team's job will be to co-ordinate the public information gleaned from meetings.

Maureen Payne, a member of the team, says a mapping program of areas throughout the province is currently being undertaken to determine possible sites for waste disposal facilities.

The mapping program, which will examine such geological features as water

Two Trans-Ams stolen

A person was apprehended and charged following the theft of two Trans-Ams from Valley Pontiac Ltd. Wednesday night.

One of the vehicles was recovered on Thursday by Breton RCMP and the other one was found in Drayton Valley on Sunday. Neither of the vehicles was damaged.

Drayton Valley RCMP say that the investigation is still under way.

A Breton man was arrested for stealing approximately $213 from the till at the Westwind Motor Inn in Drayton Valley.

The theft occurred while the culprit was attending to some customers. A man allegedly grabbed the money out of the till.

RCMP apprehended the suspect who admitted to the theft. The money was recovered in the phone booth in the Westwind lobby.

An airplane sustained approximately $8,000 damage when it misjaded Thursday at the Drayton Valley airport.

According to RCMP, the accident was attributed to pilot error.

The airplane is owned by John Hurley of Drayton Valley.

Approximately $400 in cash was reported stolen from the Carnahan residence in Drayton Valley last Wednesday night.

A vehicle which was reported stolen on Saturday morning was recovered the same afternoon.

The vehicle, which belongs to David Ehlne, was taken from in front of the Bel Air Apartments on 50th Street.

RCMP are still investigating.

An investigation is continuing into a break and enter which occurred at Woodland Chrysler on Friday night.

The thieves broke into the building through the parts room door.

An undetermined amount of cash and articles are missing.

RCMP report that E.L.M. Carpetland was unlawfully entered over the weekend.

Some damage was done with flim strewn all over the room. No determination has within an hour, plus we have men from the minimum security prison at Hardisty, in case they are needed," Mr. Munnik said.

All told, counting trained natives from surrounding reservations (usually Hobeman and Glen Nevis), the forest service can rustle up to 80 men within a couple of hours to fight a major fire, he added.

Mr. Munnik also said that the popular scenario, in which a forest ranger walks into a bar to recruit forest fire fighters, doesn't occur too often, and then only in extreme emergencies.

"It's not too often that we have to do that, and we don't like to do it because most people are not properly trained in fire fighting techniques," he said.

table level, aquifer availability and land use, will endeavor to pinpoint prime areas of the province that would accept a hazardous waste facility.

"Our first choice would be to possibly go with Crown land, but barring that, if we don't identify anything suitable, we could look to purchase or lease of private land," Mr. Payne says.

Once potential sites have been chosen, hydrological drillers, will move into the areas to further test the sites, and recommendations will eventually be made to the minister of environment.

"Those sites that we are currently mapping are only potential sites—we don't want anyone to assume that, just because we are looking at an area we are going to recommend a facility for there," Mr. Payne says.

So far, the County of Leduc has agreed to the mapping program, and the County of Parkland has been invited to do so. To date, however, no official reply has been made by county officials.

The results of the mapping program and input from the public meetings will be presented to environment minister Jack Cookson before March 31, 1982.

Work is basis for Y.O.U. program

By Roxanne Greenley

Two hundred acres of bushland and continual work provide the basis for the Youth Orientation Units (Y.O.U.) program which is located outside of Warburg.

Y.O.U. was designed as a rigorous outdoor program for young men between the ages of 16 and 20.

Residents for the program are usually referred by either Social Services or the Solicitor General's Department. These referrals include young men who are wards of the government, those who are on probation or are temporarily absent from a correctional institution.

The program is basically work-oriented and the 12 residents involved are expected to work eight hours per day, Monday to Friday.

During the time they are in Y.O.U., the residents are encouraged to develop vocational skills. The program tries to provide them with basic skills such as handling money, scheduling of time and work skills.

According to the director of Y.O.U., the program tries to improve work habits and the way in which the residents relate to employers or other authority figures.

The idea behind the program is that the residents learn to look after themselves off of welfare and government support, says Peter Rempel.

Highly Successful

In two independent tests of the Y.O.U. program, psychologists gave it a success rate of between 66 and 68 per cent. The rate was based on the numbers of people who had gone through the program and been out of trouble for one to five years following it.

"If a person has been out of trouble one year we consider it a success," says Mr. Rempel.

Y.O.U. differs from many of the other Community Residential Centres (CRC) across the province.

It, like others, requires that those involved in the program live at the site; however, Y.O.U. is less structured than many of the others.

Other programs allow their residents to work outside in the community and return only to the CRC in the evenings for therapy. Y.O.U. works on the CRC site itself although residents occasionally go out to work for people in the community.

Work on the site varies and can include anything from vehicle maintenance to farm upkeep.

The work is divided up into four different sections, including mechanical work, carpentry, farm work, and landscaping and gardening.

Everything on the site is done by the residents and the staff, from vehicle repairs and maintenance to log house construction.

The boys in the program are shifted from work area to work area so that they get a chance to do everything, says Mr. Rempel.

Special Skills

He adds that the staff doesn't allow the residents to do only one thing such as farm work for they must do all the different jobs. However, if they have a special skill, they may continue to develop it.

"We're testing what their abilities, interests and desires are," says Mr. Rempel.

The residents and staff may take on contract jobs such as fencing, picking rocks, or building up bins and small buildings for local farmers.

The money made on these contract jobs goes into the program.

Y.O.U. receives funding from Social Services, the Solicitor General's department and the Mennonite Central Committee of Alberta.

Social Services and the Solicitor General give the program approximately $26 a day for each resident while the Mennonite Central Committee covers the balance of the cost.

The program has a staff of seven. Only the director and assistant director are paid.

The rest of the staff are volunteers through the Mennonite Central Committee.

They receive no pay but are given a spending allowance and their living expenses are covered.

Program Works

According to Denis Williams of correctional services in Drayton Valley, the program has seemed to work for many of his clients.

He says that it is hard to tell how successful the program is because once the resident is off probation, contact with correctional services is no longer required.

"Even a slight improvement is something to be noted," he says.

Currently there is a waiting list of 87 for placement in the program.

WORK ON THE grounds and buildings continues year-round in the program.

FROM ITS ORIGINAL cabin which housed five people, the Y.O.U. program has expanded it facilities to include two log houses with room for 12 residents.

Holidays almost over

By Dale Lomas

Those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer are nearly over for students at County of Parkland schools, and come September 2, an estimated 1,600 students will face another 10 months of reading, writing and arithmetic.

As a matter of fact, students don't even have until September 2 before they head back to the hallowed halls of education—they have to report on the morning of September 2, according to county school superintendant Jack Langford.

"The teachers are being asked to report to school on September 1, and the students will have to go back for the morning only on September 2 in order to get their supplies straightened out," Mr. Langford says.

And when the students go back to Drayton Valley's four schools operated by the county, they won't find things too much different than when they left in June, save for those attending Eldorado Elementary.

Not only does the school now sport a brand new color scheme on the outside, the administrative areas of the school have been expanded to give more room to administrators and teachers, Mr. Langford said.

"They've just moved a few walls around in the south end of the school—nothing really major, but the students and teachers will notice the change," he said.

New Teachers

Besides the physical changes to the Eldorado School, students will be facing a number of new teachers, including three new Grade 1 teachers.

Colette Chisholm, Brenda Cavanagh and Yvonne Webber will all be teaching first-timers at Eldorado, although not all of them are new to Drayton Valley.

Both Miss Chisholm and Mrs. Cavanagh taught at St. Anthony last year. Miss Chisholm had been at the separate school since 1978, while Mrs. Cavanagh moves to Eldorado after eight years at St. Anthony.

Mrs. Webber previously taught in the Parkland County school system, during the 1969-70 school year.

Also new to Eldorado this year is Janet Bland, a Grade 2 teacher who is accepting her first teaching assignment after graduating from a university in Ontario.

Wendy Oberak, another first-time teacher, will be handling Grade 4 classes after graduating last year from the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

Mr. Ted Ballinger will be taking over the guidance counsellor position at Eldorado, and will also be spending half his time at Elementary B. This is Mr. Ballinger's first assignment since graduating from school in Ontario.

Lorraine Krucik, the new special education teacher in Eldorado and Elementary B, comes to Drayton Valley after three years teaching Grade 2 in Rosyrville.

Over at Elementary B, Mrs. Judy Gill will be teaching Grade 4 after graduating from the U of A, while Anna Rozsil will be moving to the Grade 5 class after six years at St. Anthony.

At H.W. Pickup Junior High, Darlene Nelgrif will be taking over the special education transition room after teaching Grade 7 in Peace River for the last two years, and Wally Heinrichs will be moving into the guidance counsellor's office after being with the Calgary Board of Education for seven years.

Frank Maddock High School is not without its new staff, and four teachers will be moving into slots there. Bev Dekker (math), Bev Stanton (home economics), Pamela Walsh (home economics/social studies) and Darwin Werner (music) are all new to the high school this year.

Body identified from prints

A decomposed body found near Evansburg on July 30 has been positively identified from fingerprints as that of a 66-year-old Manitoba man.

Evansburg RCMP say that the coroner was unable to discover the cause of death, however, there was nothing to indicate foul play.

The body was discovered by a group of hikers who noticed it in a deep gully just west of Evansburg.

Police are withholding the man's name pending notification of next of kin.

Good response to ERCB order

By Dale Lomas

Response to an Energy Resources Conservation Board (ERCB) request to oil companies to properly fence their pump jacks has been positive, according to the Drayton Valley area supervisor of the ERCB.

Bob Keller said last week that responses have been coming in ever since the requests were delivered more than three weeks ago, in the wake of a Western Review survey of unfenced wells.

"We gave them a deadline of August 31 to reply to our requests, and we are still expecting a few more responses, but so far, the companies have been very good about co-operating," Mr. Keller said.

Several companies, including Amoco and McMil, identified by the Western Review as having inadequately fenced wells, have replied to the ERCB that they will fence all wells as required by provincial law, and others have said they do not have applicable wells, Mr. Keller noted.

"Amoco said they would be fencing the wells in Rocky Rapids almost immediately after we were in touch with them, and it is my understanding that they have already fenced one of them," Mr. Keller said.

Norcen indicated to the ERCB that they would undertake to fence 66 of their wells, including some that they are not required by law to fence.

Mr. Keller said some of the wells Norcen intended to fence were near well travelled highways and secondary roads, as well as adjacent to popular camping spots.

Employee resigns

An employee of the Town of Drayton Valley has resigned her position with the town saying pressure on the job forced her to quit.

Darlene Van Ember, a receptionist with the Town for the last 3½ years, submitted her resignation on Monday, and said a lack of organization within the Town administration led to her decision to leave her job.

"Ever since the employees were laid off, the atmosphere around here has not been too good, and the pressure was starting to affect my family life," Mrs. Van Ember said.

She claimed that pressure has been coming from the Town management, but declined to elaborate on specifics.

"Let's just say it's (the pressure) been building up for quite a while, and it got to the point where I couldn't handle it any longer," she said.

She said that the employees had hoped the atmosphere of working in the Town hall would improve since the employees were certified with the Canadian Union of Public Employees and the terminated employees were reinstated, "but that just hasn't happened."

Mrs. Van Ember's resignation is effective August 28.

Credit courses offered

Two history courses will be offered in the evenings in Drayton Valley as part of the University of Alberta's evening credit course program.

The two courses, History 371 and History 372, cover the course of western Canadian history from early recordings to the present.

History 371 deals with the history of western Canada up to 1870, and will be offered at H.W. Pickup Junior High beginning on September 8, according to U of A credit course spokesman Jenny Harris.

History 372, dealing with western Canada from 1870 to the present, will begin January 5 of next year.

The initial class on September 8 will run from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., during which time registration will take place.

Conducting the course will be Professor John Nicks of Edmonton.

Further information on the credit courses can be obtained from Mrs. Harris by phoning 542-5096.

Well fences

"They don't even have to fence half the wells they said they would; they want to make sure they take care of all possible dangers," Mr. Keller said.

Other companies in the Drayton Valley area that have indicated they have checked or will check their wells for proper fencing are Inter-City Gas, Kerr-McGee Corporation, Home Oil, Gulf Canada Ltd., Rezo Resources, Chevron Canada and CanDel Oil.

Byelection

The resignation last week of councillor Lorna Haley comes as a bit of a surprise to all of us, but it also provides a golden opportunity to some of town council's harshest unadmirers detractors.

As a result of Ms. Haley's resignation, a byelection will have to be held to fill the vacant seat on council.

For the past six months or so, council has been getting a fair amount of criticism from the public and the press. Some of that criticism has been justified; some of it has not.

Now, however, the critics have a chance to put their money where their mouths are, so to speak, and perhaps provide some of the answers council is so diligently seeking.

It is not this newspaper's position, nor that of any newspaper, to run for public office, so we ask the public to step forward and make a race of the byelection.

We most certainly don't want this upcoming byelection to be a one horse race—to allowing it to become one would not be fair to the voters or the existing town council.

Drayton Valley residents should be given the opportunity to have a choice in who they want on council, and only by having at least two or three contestants for the vacant seat will that opportunity be realized.

Wastes

In the search for hazardous waste disposal sites, the government has traditionally taken a unilateral approach, announcing potential sites without any sort of public information procedure beforehand.

Just recently, a proposed disposal site in the Fort Saskatchewan area was shot down by the public, based partially on the fact that the public wasn't informed of the decision until it was almost too late.

Now, however, the government is actively seeking public input and support in its search for one, and perhaps two, hazardous waste disposal sites.

Public meetings, one of which will be held in Drayton Valley on September 9, are being organized throughout the province to educate the public about the pros and cons of such disposal facilities.

At the same time, government agencies are busy mapping the province from a geological standpoint, with a view of finding land that is best suited to the demands such waste disposal sites will make.

Ground water levels and quality, agricultural acceptability and current land use are all being taken into account by the seven-member hazardous waste disposals team in their mapping survey.

So far, the County of Parkland has not indicated that it wishes to take part in this mapping survey, but the County of Leduc has given the go ahead, and it is not unreasonable to expect Parkland to follow suit.

And, should the county decide that it wants its territory mapped for disposal site suitability, it could well be a tacit indication that a hazardous waste disposal site would be tolerated, if not welcomed, by county officials.

Certainly there are good points to having such a facility locate within the county—increased tax revenue, certain spin-off industries and an increased population—that would seem attractive to county officials.

They must remember, however, that there are several disadvantages to such a facility, including the greatly increased chance of a major chemical disaster, perhaps on the magnitude experienced a couple of years ago in Mississauga, Ont.

However, with the amount of public information the government is seeking, and the lack of secrecy involved in disposal site planning, the government is certainly going about its business in a responsible manner, rather than foisting unwanted hazards on the residents of this province.

Perspectives By Donna Haukeda!

All of my life I have imagined "Sunny Florida" as an ideal place to live, taking advantage of the weather and enjoying the good life. Why shouldn't it be, in a land of sunshine, fruit trees and sandy beaches?

During our month in the north, I learned that this is most definitely not so for many people from this part of the world. While many we met were tourists travelling in 40-foot motorhomes, others had gone north in search of work, living mostly on pancakes and eggs. (Eggs are much cheaper in Alaska.)

Camped next to us in a campground near Anchorage was a family from Florida. They had come to Alaska hoping to find work, but discovered (along with many others) that this booming state didn't have as many job opportunities as they had expected. So there they sat with an old car with bald tires, an old tent, a few soot-covered cooking utensils, a small black dog, very little money, and, it seemed, no home to return to.

He had gotten three days work, and had little hope of finding more. They didn't know how long they would have to stay there, because they had no money to go home.

They did all of their cooking over the open fire, and had no axe to split wood with. James, their 11-year-old son, slept in the car. The days were very long for them since they seldom left the campgrounds.

James and our Lane quickly became friends, and he was a sad little boy when we left since there was no one else around for him to play with, and the only play things he had were those Lane gave him. I felt as though we were deserting him. He wore the same soiled clothes five out of the six days we were there.

His mother, with her hair always twisted up in half a dozen pin curls, seemed only to have one set of clothing. She spent most of her time sitting on a log staring into the firepit. It was difficult to converse with her.

James told Lane he had a little brother who had been left with friends, but his mother denied she ha another child.

James explained that the reason he had troubl reading the comic books Lane gave him was because they moved around so much he never gets to finish a school term. "Every year I go back to that same old school," he said.

They are fruit pickers, following the crops as they get ready. And I understand that they rent something to live in in Florida when the fruit season is over. They appear to have little education, and the sad part is the fact that their children will probably have no other choice than to follow in their parents' footsteps. One 10-year-old boy Lane met has never attended school, and couldn't read or count very far. He was also from Florida.

James's father read every comic we had with us, and once said in a strong southern accent, "I'd be right proud to go to work." I sort of doubt if his wife was able to read.

It sounded as though misfortune had been their guest for some time. Two years previous they were involved in a serious auto accident and after almost a year in hospital, James was left with a chest condition which affects his breathing, as well as causes him to have double vision.

Certainly the number of people who were enjoying this beautiful land far outweighed those who were miserable. If not, we wouldn't have enjoyed our vacation as we did. But it was an eye-opener.

Some who came to Alaska from the lower 48 in hopes of finding a better life did find work. Others returned south with shattered dreams of the nomadic life they had hoped to escape.

Report from Parliament Hill

Restore economic order

By Joe Clark

In my last Report from Parliament, I set out ways in which the Trudeau government could help the victims of high interest rates. The measures I set out would help particular victims; but the government owes it to Canadians to re-open the question as to whether high interest rates in fact fight inflation. Certainly, so far, interest rates and inflation rates have climbed together.

No doubt, our high interest rates provide some support to our dollar; but a sensible energy agreement would stabilize the dollar more.

Our current inflation is not the product of demand-supply pressures. Instead, it is caused by two factors.

First, the impact of OPEC's mammoth increases in world price—increases not just in our oil import themselves, but in the cost of virtually everything we import, especially from the United States.

And second, the fact that major groups in our society—government, labor, business—have all been seeking an increased share for themselves of a static national wealth.

In fact, our lack of economic growth and our inflation are part of the same problem, caused by the same factors. The massive outflow of Canadian dollars to pay for oil and other imports has drained domestic demand and, therefore, limited growth. The battle over distributing income in a stagnant economy has both raised inflation and lowered productivity.

Anti-inflation policy must begin by sheltering our economy, as far as is practicable, from the risks of new external price shocks, from OPEC or elsewhere. That, in turn, must begin with a national energy policy whose first priority is to end this country's dangerous and unnecessary independence on foreign oil.

Energy self-sufficiency must the first purpose of Canadian energy policy. Yet the Lalonde-Trudeau policy puts Canadian self-sufficiency a distant third behind the goals of more federal revenues and more state control.

Obviously the federal government should get more revenue from energy; my government's energy agreement got more revenue for Ottawa, and created an Energy Bank and other instruments to ensure increased Canadian control of the Canadian energy industry.

Energy policy is important in itself, and as a symbol.

In itself, energy can be the locomotive which pulls our economy forward. It is a sector where we are strong in resources, in technology, and in potential markets. It inspires innovation, creates jobs, and attracts capital. It also provides opportunity right across Canada, from tidal power to tar sands, and so holds the potential of drawing the nation together in a common goal of growth.

In 1975, after denouncing my predecessor, the Honorable Robert L. Stanfield and promising that it would never do the same, the Trudeau government introduced wage and price controls on Canadians.

There are now rumors in Ottawa about a new plan for wage and price controls. We must take those rumors seriously, if only because the Liberals deny them.

You will remember the last time controls were imposed, the Liberals broke their promise to use the controls period to introduce structural changes. They broke that promise then, and probably would again. What is important here is the structural change itself, which is the real key to growth. Controls don't cause growth. My preference would be to achieve structural change without controls—and the only possible justification of controls might be to work out the structural change we need.

I will certainly never forget February of 1980—not only for what did happen—but for what didn't happen. Until the electorate intervened—protesting 18 cent a gallon increase in gas—we had planned, for February, a National Economic Development Conference.

It was designed, precisely, to get the agreement of the whole economic community on the kinds of structural changes Canada needed to take advantage of the opportunities of the 1980s and the 1990s.

We believe those changes have to be worked out in partnership—with a strong lead from Ottawa—but not imposed from the top down.

The challenge has not changed. As well as energy self-sufficiency, Canada needs the following structural policies to move us towards sustained growth—a trade policy which gives strong Canadian companies, particularly in the high technology field, the same kind of government support their competitor gets as a matter of course; a tax policy which encourages investment, innovation and risk-taking; an agreed process on identifying industrial sectors which will be strongest bets for Canada, in modern world competition; and a major change in education and retraining programs, so that women and young people and others will have skills they can use in the modern world.

What we need most of all is a change of attitude—a recognition that sustained growth is the best guarantee of individual prosperity—and the best protection against inflation.

These last days the dollar has been sliding over lower, our interest rates soaring ever higher. The world is telling us very plainly: it has no confidence in the management of our economy.

It is not some superficial re-financing scheme we need now, nor some new tax burden which the minister of Finance is now threatening to impose on Canadians who can bear no more.

What we must have from the minister and from the Prime Minister is a comprehensive package of measures that will say to the world and to our own people: we are going to put our economic house in order. Parliament will want to see such a package very soon. This government will deserve the condemnation and contempt of Canadians from coast to coast if it does not seize control of what is rapidly becoming the most serious crisis in at least two decades.

Are you happy with the town's budget?

Not really, but we will probably straighten it out this year sometime.

Joan Prockat

I suppose if they're in debt they have to increase it. They're not the only town in Alberta to increase it. They are really no different from the average homeowner. Income isn't coming in and inflation is going up. What can you do?

Nick Pawlik
Drayton Valley
High. Wages didn't go up 24 per cent. If wages go up 10 per cent then taxes should go 10.

Jane Merwin
Violet Grove
I do feel sorry for the people in here because 24 per cent is very high.

Greg Hallenth
Drayton Valley
No. I wasn't pleased with the budget as such. It is a time of inflation and everyone is trying to cut back. I think they could have done better.

Seek trucking hero

The search is on for Canada's 1981 national truck hero.

A reward of $500 will be paid to the person or organization that nominates the professional trucker who becomes the 20th annual recipient of the award.

Sponsored by Firestone Canada Inc., and endorsed by the Canada Safety Council and Canadian Trucking Association, the award is presented annually to a trucker who has performed an act of bravery over and above the call of duty.

"Frequently, truck drivers aid motorists and in many instances actually risk their lives to help others. On the other hand, some motorists consider trucks a nuisance on the highway," says Alberta G. Kramer, president of Firestone.

"Besides the important economic contribution the trucking industry makes, it is important to remember that chances are the professional truck driver will be the first on the scene during a road mishap—the first good samaritan to administer assistance. The annual competition focuses public attention on the many acts of bravery performed by professional truck drivers," he adds.

In 1980, Ralf Fischer of Calgary was the national truck hero. He was one of the first to provide assistance after a bus full of Canadian Pacific rail workers collided with a lumber truck full of liquid asphalt near Swift Current, Sask., on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Fischer was cited while saving the life of fellow truck driver Bob Shaw. Witnesses claim that the tragic crash killing 23 people could have been higher without the quick action of the Calgary truck driver.

The hero receives a $1,000 cash prize, a VIP all expense paid weekend for two at a luxury Toronto hotel, including first class travel arrangements, and a personal trophy all courtesy of Firestone, as well as an inscribed Rolex wrist watch, courtesy of the Rolex watch company.

Entries will be considered by a panel of judges consisting of William L. Bigelt, president, Canada Safety Council; Frank Howard, Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communication; and Albert G. Kramer, president of Firestone Canada Inc.

Nominations, accompanied by newspaper clippings, witness statements or other supporting evidence should be sent to National Truck Hero, c/o Canada Safety Council, 1765 Longcut Blvd., Ottawa, Ont. K1G 3V4. Firestone will pay the winning nominator $200 cash.

The act of bravery must have been performed during the year ending September 30, 1981, and nominations must be received by October 9, 1981.

Collision on bridge

yet been made on what is missing.

A man was charged with driving without due care and attention on August 11 after he disrupted one vehicle and collided with another on the North Saskatchewan River bridge.

Ernest Sorensen of Hobbirk, Alta., pulled out to pass a west bound vehicle, however, he was unable to re-enter the lane safely.

Mr. Sorensen's motorhome sideswiped an east bound vehicle after which it collided with another vehicle. The third vehicle had stopped for a flagman.

Debbie Sorensen, 14, received minor injuries in the accident.

Next week will be the start of a blitz by the Drayton Valley RCMP to warn people more aware of road safety.

Traffic enforcement and radar will be stepped up to make people more aware of their speed before school starts. It is also an attempt to decrease the number of accidents.

As a result of the increased enforcement this weekend, RCMP laid three separate charges of possession of a narcotic and gave out 39 traffic violations.

Armwrestling wins for Evansburg

By Mary Cummings

On August 5, 79 young boys and girls crowded into the community hall at Alberta Beach but they did not come to see Santa Claus or the Easter bunny. They came to lock up and compete in the sport of armwrestling.

They were divided into 14 different age groups for boys and girls ages four, six, eight, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years.

The Alberta Beach Lions and Alberta Beach Fire Department along with the Canadian Armwrestling Association staged the event, which was the biggest children's tournament in the history of the sport and most of the credit for the record breaking marathon goes to Stu Fisk of the Alberta Beach Lions. Stu had staged the first ever children's armwrestling two years ago at an annual tournament.

The star of the show was Evansburg's smallest hulk, six-year-old Aaron Young, who competed in two different age groups—under six and under eight. Aaron won the under six with ease but in the finals of the eight-year-olds he was defeated and sent to the loser's side. This gave him one last chance to become the champion. The last match of the day came and Aaron Young walked up on stage as he had all day and took out his eight-year-old opponent with great speed, making him the only two-time winner in the sport.

Along with Aaron were the Mlazsky's sisters, three-year-old Darla who placed third in the girls' under four years and five-year-old Dianne who took first in the girls' under six years category.

The day ended for the children with rides and hot dogs.

Children's armwrestling is becoming popular and maybe one day we will look back at the pioneers who started it all with the boys, Aaron Young of Evansburg.

Lawn bowlers win silver

By Mary Cummings

Jessie Anderson, Olwyn Anderson, Alice Grant and Marie June, all of Evansburg, were four tired but happy women when they returned home in the early hours of August 9.

The four had just participated in the lawn bowling tournament at the 1981 Alberta Summer Games held in Lethbridge Aug. 6, 7 and 8.

The two Andersons and Marie played in the triples and came back with silver medals. Alice Grant played singles and did very well. She lost her first game by one point, her second by two points and won her third game, just missing a medal position. She said the experience of these games was very gratifying. Their games were played in over 35 degree temperatures which was very tiring, especially when the Andersons and Marie June played four games back-to-back.

They all reported the hospitality accorded them more than compensated for the inconvenience of the heat. They received a commendation from the Games committee on their game etiquette and play, especially in view of the short time they have been playing the game.

They were also outstanding in their uniforms of white slacks and deep yellow T-shirts with Evansburg in black letters across the front. The lettering had been imprinted on the shirts courtesy of Connie Horst. With these uniforms they were easily spotted wherever they went and so were nicknamed the Yellow Birds. They played in Zone 6 Black Gold/Yellowhead, which placed second overall in team points.

Congratulations girls—well done.

Cyclist killed

A 19-year-old man died following a motorcycle accident at the intersection of Highways 16 and 22 last Wednesday.

Calvin Bugera of Wildwood was fatally injured in the accident which occurred between his motorcycle and a gravel truck.

According to Evansburg RCMP, the Bugera motorcycle, which was coming away from a stop sign, slid under the gravel truck.

Mr. Bugera died upon his arrival at hospital in Edmonton.

Police report that the investigation into the accident is still under way.

ON A HOT day, a cool freeze-pop is just the thing to cool off with, as this lad at the Darwell Agricultural Fair found out last weekend. Unfortunately, his goat had to go without, but no doubt managed to find something else to interest him. (photo by Wendy Thomson)

out our way

By Wendy Thomson

This column is a few days late in being written because I decided to do something different this week and take berries and baking into the Farmers' Market.

My raspberry bushes were once again laden, this year, and with our freezer on the blink, I had nowhere to put them even if they were picked.

Neighbors helped out by coming down on sunny days and taking a few pails home, but the majority of the berries ripened and fell off.

After eyeing up all the spoiled fruit, I gave a big sigh, set down, and began making plans. Since berries themselves wouldn't take up too much room, I thought a bit of home baking might fill a market table up.

There were also a few photos I'd enlarged that would round the offerings out.

So Sunday I spent most of the day cutting, measuring, polishing and framing.

Monday, I turned the oven on first thing in the morning and set to work. I'm no great hand at doing large quantities of cakes, pies and bread, and those boxes were already amply displayed at the market, so I turned to other things.

I thought to do something different by hauling out my favorite low-calorie recipes and baking up a batch of each to see how they'd go.

First in the oven was coffee cake, then gingerbread, and then an orange sponge cake. Lots-of-calorie oatmeal cookies went in last, and a pot of spaghetti sauce bubbled on the stove.

Tuesday, I spent quite a few hours in the berry patch, joyfully cursing the trucks that were showering us liberally with dust, every few minutes.

A neighbor lady brought over a few loaves of bread and some squares, and I was all set!

I must say the day was interesting. There was no lack of customers and the berries were snapped up in no time. A few photos were sold, and I traded one of my favorites for a huge pail of honey.

The one thing that surprised me, though, was the caution with which everybody viewed "Low Calorie Baking." I had thought, considering the shape of many folk (myself included) that it would sell quite well. It didn't, and I wondered if perhaps people had it in their minds that if it were "diet," it wasn't good.

However, after one lady tried the gingerbread, she ended up buying everything that was left on the table, so I came home quite content.

Part of this contentment was just because I'd had an enjoyable day, had a chance to visit with friends, and became acquainted with people who read both this column and The Recipe Corner.

One lady assured me she tried almost every recipe printed and was extremely pleased with them ... a comment which alone would have made my day.

Last Saturday was the same sort of day, but this time at the Darwell Fair taking pictures. I worked a bit, visited with friends, and made a number of new ones.

One woman, eyeing me up, said "I wouldn't have recognized you from your picture in the paper," and I couldn't help but grin.

That was taken one day when I was all spiffed up, even to wearing nerylon. It was before an evening out, and I was feeling quite calm and cool and in control.

But on Saturday, a few minutes before making this new acquaintance, I'd been lying flat on my stomach in the grass (and other things, very likely) taking pictures of a goat's udder. The sun was hot which makes me turn beet-red and shiny, my hair was decidedly unkempt, and I was anything but calm and cool.

Still, it IS me in the paper, although my coloring may tend more toward greyish ash-brown hair topping a rosy-pink face, rather than the pictured black and white.

And I DO look tidy, now and then ... unfortunately, it's usually "then."

Second gas export planned

Sulpetro Limited announced last week it has filed an application with the National Energy Board seeking approval of a second natural gas export project. It is scheduled to commence immediately after completion of deliveries under the company's current export project.

A new sales contract entered into with Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation, will entitle Transco to receive up to a maximum volume of 2,089 thousand cubic metres (75 million cubic feet) per day commencing November 1, 1983. The contract covers an eight-year period of proposed exports, with reducing volumes being requested in the last four years.

Gas supply for the project will be obtained from 19 fields located in Alberta, in which Sulpetro has an average working interest of approximately 89% per cent and has entered into commitments to purchase its partners' shares of production. As a result, 86 other Canadian natural gas producers are to share in the export sale.

Sulpetro Limited is an independent Canadian oil and gas company active in exploration, development and production in Canada, the U.S. and internationally.

Grad bash "fun"

By Cst. Doug [illegible]

At the 1981 Grad Bash for Frank Maddock High School, a truck was destroyed by fire when a couple of exuberant revellers got a Bible carried away in their celebrations.

Fortunately, no one was in the truck at the time, and nobody was injured, but the results of this Bible "fun" could have been disastrous.

Just think, parents, some of your young adults were at this Grad Bash. Of course, I'm not saying that all of the kids present were involved in this deed but I know that some were.

By law, the following offences have been committed:

- Setting fires - Section 388(1) of the Criminal Code which is punishable by imprisonment for five years, and
- Mischief - Section 387 of the Criminal Code which is also punishable by imprisonment of five years.

As I was out at this incident I saw hundreds of smashed beer bottles strewn on the ground and I am sure that there were just as many empty beer cases scattered about, and let us not forget the empty bottles which once contained hard liquor. Believe it or not someone even made $90 in empty bottles. Pretty good for a few hours work after a graduation bash.

I wonder how many parents know that the drinking age in this province is 18 years of age? Would you believe it if I told you that I know there were some kids at this so-called celebration who were under 16 years of age, and they were even taken there by a parent. That's a fact.

Some of you out there might be thinking that there goes a hard nose cop rambling on again.

Well, all I can say is I was the one who investigated the missing juveniles that night, the head-on collision injuring, three persons and assisted in the roll-over accident, the impaired drivers, and the other related calls that night.

Granted, I get paid for investigating these things but I sure don't like seeing people get injured because of a party. Who knows, maybe next year, if there is another Grad Bash, and someone decides to paint the water tower again or hang a pair of unmentionables on a guide wire, he or she might slip and fall. And we will have to investigate a sudden death because of a Bible party to raise money for graduation.

So far, we have been pretty lucky, but it is only a matter of time before something really serious happens, and as our luck goes, it will be a doozy.

Just imagine what would have happened if someone was sleeping in the truck, and someone decided he or she didn't like the color of his truck, or the way he parts his hair. It could be gruesome, couldn't it?

The Recipe Corner

by Wendy Thomson

More summer recipes, beginning with one for bread for when it's too hot to do a lot of kneading.

Butter Bread

Ingredients: 1 cup milk; 3 Tbsp. sugar; 1 Tbsp. salt; 1½ Tbsp. shortening; 1 cup warm water; 2 pkgs. yeast; 4½ cups flour.

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and shortening and cool to lukewarm.

Sprinkle yeast over lukewarm water and stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture.

Add flour and stir until well blended, about two minutes. Cover and let rise in warm place for 40 minutes or until doubled in bulk.

Stir batter down, beat vigorously for ½ minute. Turn into greased 1½ quart casserole or an 8" square pan, or an 8" tube pan.

Bake, uncovered, at 375 degrees for one hour.

Makes one loaf.

Picnic Beans

Ingredients: ¼ cup each molasses and chili sauce; 1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce; 1 tsp. dry mustard; 4 (15 oz.) cans baked beans; 2 Tbsp. dried minced onion.

Combine all ingredients and heat until beans are bubbling. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Peach Cooler

Ingredients: 1½ cups milk; 1½ cups sliced peaches; dash salt; 3 or 4 drops almond extract; 1½ cups ice cream.

Combine first four ingredients in blender and process until smooth. Add ice cream and beat just until blended.

Makes three servings.

Shower honors bride

By Mary Cumming

Over 40 women gathered at Heritage House August 9 to honor Miss Shirley Weist with a miscellaneous bridal shower.

Miss Weist will become the bride of Thomas Ware on August 22.

Seated with her at the head table to assist opening gifts were her mother, Minnie Weist, her sister Mary Ann Lorens and friend Elaine Deines. The latter two will be attendants at her wedding. Also assisting were her two nieces Kerry and Trina Lorens.

The bride-to-be thanked all present for attending and for the gifts she had received, but extended a special thanks to the hostesses: Audrey Langer, Lil Farrell, Margaret Young, Carol Schmidt, Lois Tuttle, Marion Fausak, Edna Croft, Rose Wolgi, Mary Lovlei, Mary Fauldaro, Shirley Gray and Marybelle Thompson.

D.V. Highlights

Seek historical interest

By Edith Bisley
543-6402

Members of the Historical Society hope to increase membership and create more interest in preserving a record of the history and growth of our community.

The first meeting of the fall season is tentatively set for September 2 in the Drop-In Centre at 7:00 p.m. Further information may be obtained by phoning Cal Bartlett at 542-2320, Eleanor Pickup at 542-2226, Robert Elliott at 542-2617 or Edith Disley at 542-5451. Watch the party line in the Western Review.

Best wishes for a happy future go to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold Schimp, nee Mary Helen Herzog, who were married here on August 14.

Jim and Edith McKinley and their daughters Lee Anne and Jill of Milbrook, Ont., visited with the Norway McKinleys for 4 week. Jim and Norman are cousins.

River Fleischacker and daughter Tara Lee returned on Friday from Saskatchewan where they attended a golden wedding anniversary party for Shirley's aunt and uncle.

Deepest sympathy goes to Dale Lachance's widow, Tamara, his mother, and all other members of his family. Dale was killed in a car accident at Rocky Mountain House on the weekend.

Gordon Pickup, a teacher-librarian in Rocky Mountain House, a son of Eleanor Pickup and the late Howard Pickup, has been taking the services at the United Church here this summer. Gordon is seriously considering leaving the teaching profession for missionary work.

Golfer wins gold at summer games

Breton news
by Lois Dyck
696-2394

Deanna Masser, youngest daughter of Bob and Gunhild Ladouceur, was one of the competitors in Zone 5 of the Alberta Summer Games held in Lethbridge. There was a happy lady when on August 7 she received a gold medal for golfing. Congratulations, Deanna, keep up the good work.

Recent visitors at the home of Helen Hearn were her sister-in-law, Elsie Pirsiniki and Mrs. Pirsiniki's daughter Linda and children Michelle and Jason of Winnipeg.

On August 6 Jan Robinson from Leduc took 23 senior citizens from Breton by bus to Wizard Lake Jubilee Park. Others came from the Parkland Nursing Home at Leduc, Devon, Calmar, and others came on their own.

After the outing being cancelled twice, the weather co-operated and the seniors reported having a nice time playing lawn darts, horseshoes, card games and visiting.

They were given watermelon, coffee and soft drinks.

Upon returning from a trip to Yellowknife, Albert and Sharon Hansen and their three daughters spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hansen, before returning home to Fort McMurray.

Rod and Elaine Hansen and their three children were at the Hansen home at the same time as his brother. They had just returned from a holiday to B.C. Before returning to their home at Fort McMurray, they spent a week at Long Lake, Alta.

The weekend of August 7 to 9 saw a family reunion at the Thos Westling farm for Vi's side of the family. About 30 people attended from Edmonton, Calgary, Millet, Brooks, Buck Lake, Busk Creek and Breton.

Val Porias and Laura Haggart organized this reunion.

Have you ever seen a ball game with 13 players on each team? Well, they had one. A volleyball game was played and a game of touch football. There were sack races and wheelbarrow races.

The morning of August 9 the family had a pancake breakfast with the cooks being Neil Westling and Ed Haggart. They were going to make sure that one pancake each was enough, besides making them the size of the griddle and having shovels there to turn them with there was no added surprise to this, as the eggshells had been added to the pancake batter.

Vi made and decorated a cake with their family tree on it.

Besides all the activity, everyone had a nice time visiting with one another.

Mrs. Hansen of '71 is having a school class reunion on September 5. For more information call Patti Hansen at 896-2188.

Ray and Dorothy Gauvien celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary on August 8. The highlight of their day was when their youngest daughter, Lorette, phoned them. In the summer she goes with her husband on the paving crew and with the mail strike they hadn't heard from her in a while.

Congratulations to Kim Sommers and Hobbie Robinson who were married in Breton on August 7.

Rollie Bigelow spent a month visiting at the Westling homes. Besides spending time with his aunt and uncle, Vi and Theo Westling, he also stayed with Neil for a while and Laura and Ed Haggart took him out camping.

Lloyd and Helen Stevenson flew from Creston B.C. the morning of August 1 and landed his plane at Ted and Ann Gray's. They visited with Ray and Marg Stevenson. Also visiting were Evelyn Stevenson, Darlene Kershaw, Dot and Alf Befus and daughter Linda and her boyfriend Artie Holyk, all of Edmonton. The highlight of Sunday was a plane ride by Lloyd Stevenson for his two nieces, Kim and Tammy Stevenson and Terry Fadden. The day was spent playing horseshoes, visiting and eating. Jill and Errol Fadden joined them later in the evening.

Fred, May and Vera Henryluk spent a week in Kelowna visiting with Art and Gloria Davies and other friends and relatives. They enjoyed picking the fruit and noted that the strawberries and cherries were lovely.

Kathy Neufeld has returned home after a three-week visit to Budapest, Hungary. She went with a cousin who had come to Canada for a two-month visit and was returning home again. Kathy found that three weeks just wasn't long enough for visiting with all of the relatives and didn't get the chance to meet all of them.

She found the weather super while she was there. One day got up as high as 98 degrees. The people were friendly, the country beautiful and the fruit tasted so good because it was ripened right on the vine. Kathy is looking forward to the day when she can return for another visit.

Sympathy is extended to the Long family on the death of Mrs. Myrtle Long.

There will be a ball work bee at the Funsell Community Centre on Aug. 23. This work bee will be to fix up the ball diamond. There will be a pot luck supper after the work bee.

Gerhard and Carmen Guenther and children Arnold and Ingrid have moved back to Breton. They had first moved here in 1975. Then in December of 1977 they opened the Breton Denture Clinic. Later, the Guenthers decided to move to the coast and retire, but after two years of retirement they decided to move back to Breton as they liked the country around here and also the hunting.

They have purchased the home formerly owned by Wally Albers and will be living there after mid-September. Until then they are living in town.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Guenther are certified dental mechanics and will have the denture clinic open two days a week but are available at any time if anyone needs them.

Their son Arnold will be attending university this fall and their daughter Ingrid will be attending Grade 11 in Breton.

Wally and Helen Albers are busy building a house on their land just west of Breton.

Tracy Stevenson has returned home from Inuvik and Petitzawwa where he spent six weeks at the cadet camp.

Visiting at the Myrhaugen home for four days were Stella's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sept of Wetaskiwin.

Happy birthday wishes are sent to Mrs. Agnes Saunders who celebrated her 82nd birthday on August 13.

Congratulations to Jim and Rose Saunders who celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary Aug. 10. May you have many more years together.

The Breton Fish and Game Association will be having a general meeting on Aug. 27. The weights for the fish will be posted at the Hill and Dale Realty office if you are interested.

The winners of the bingo at the Golden Age Centre August 8 were as follows: Mabel Reich (three), Geneva Mackt (three), Catherine Moorhouse (two), Ralph Myrhaugen (two), Ranar Mackt, Thelma Williams (two), William Reich (two), Dick Slulk, Lois Moore, Helen Baum, Carl Risser and Stan Sobon.

Ray and Janet Ellis celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary on Aug. 7. Their son and daughter-in-law, Dave and Dixie Ellis, took them to Drayton Valley for supper. May you have many more happy years together.

Joe and Katie Slulk travelled by motorhome with their daughter and son-in-law, Josephine and Buster Robinson to Alaska. Two more couples in another motorhome travelled with them.

They left Shave Lake and travelled to Prince Rupert where they caught a ferry to Hines. From there they travelled to Fairbanks, the northern point of their trip. They stopped at the little community of North Pole, Alaska, and then to Tuk, Anchorage, on to Dawson City, Whitehorse, down the Alaska Highway to Watson Lake, Fort Nelson, on to Fort St. John, Dawson Creek, then to Shave Lake and back home again.

The weather was nice and they had a nice time on their trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Slulk travelled to Willingdon for the August 8 weekend and attended the Willingdon fair. They had an agricultural fair and horse races, chariot races and chuckwagon races. While they were in Willingdon they visited with Katie's brothers and sisters who are living there.

There is a place of security

By Rev. A.F. Irving

There is a place of security.

In our world of the sagging dollar value, soaring interest rates, and the high cost of housing and living, is there anything that we can depend on? Is there anything that is sure?

In the scripture, Jesus tells of something that is sure. "And I say unto thee that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build by Church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Matt. 16:18.) The Church that Jesus built is sure!

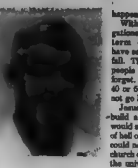
There are three general usages of the word 'church'.

A group of people locally who meet for worship are called a church.

A number of local congregations that band together are called a church.

That great body which includes all believers is called a church.

Too often the local church may be an iceberg of jealousy, indifference or just careless living. It is possible that in your lifetime you have seen this very thing happen.



Rev. A.F. Irving

Within groups of congregations where we use the term denominations, we have seen churches rise and fall. The sad part is that people will not forgive and forget. Something happened 40 or 50 years ago so I will not go back.

Jesus said that He would build a church and that it would stand. Even the gates of hell or all the forces of hell could never conquer it. This church could be described as the universal church, which includes every person who accepted Christ as a personal savior, regardless of where they may worship.

This church was founded at Pentecost and very soon after the tests began. Paul led a period of bitter persecution against the church which served only to spread it. Later Rome tried to stamp it out and while many were lost still the church survived.

Today the form of attack has changed and is trying to get the church to water down its message to where it will no longer transform the lives of men.

What makes the church so strong and secure? It is because Christ is its founder, redeemer, head and living Lord today.

We can be a part of this great company only as we accept Christ as our savior and follow Him as our living Lord.

This is not a false security, but is real and will be sufficient for any circumstance of this life and for the day when we step to the world to come.

We can have this security today through Christ

Wishing well news

Drapes brighten lounge

By Belle Cahoon

Have you noticed our new drapes here in the main lounge? They are so pretty; really light and cheery. We are real proud of them.

Our bingo and whist games have been turning out real well. It really makes a nice visiting evening with coffee and lunch being served by our ladies' lunch committee. They are doing a magnificent hostess job for us.

One morning my lady friend Alice Robert from Lake Isle and I were having coffee when we had a surprise and lovely visitor who joined us with coffee. It was Nina Hansen who is Shirley Cripps's secretary. We hope to have her back soon. We did enjoy your visit so much, Nina.

Jeanette Vetter, the tickets you ran off for us for our raffle on the quilt are selling real good. Thank you Jeanette from all of us.

Grace Cook is away on an extended holiday to Winnipeg. She has two sons and two daughters that live over that way.

We are sorry, Blanche Jensen, to hear that you are in the hospital. Hope to have you home soon.

Have you noticed how lovely our grounds are looking around here? We are real proud of how well Ernie Ellert and sons take care of our grounds. Hats off to you all.

Haven't we had some lovely weather for haying? I sure hope all the hay will be saved this year.

I am glad Swan Hills residents are able to move back home. That must have been a terrible sour disaster.

At last our mail is coming through. After so long a rest it should be really moving.

August brings visitors

By Edith Norquay

We had a surprise come to visit us on August 2. Bill Robinson's granddaughter Cindy Lee and her husband Brian Burchell came for a short visit. They are living at Athens, Alta.

On August 3 we had 8½ tables for cribbage at the Drop-in Centre. High for the ladies was Bertha Elliott. She had a perfect score. Low was Sarah Roy. High for the men was Robert Elliott. Low was Bd Hines.

On Aug. 6 we had bingo at the Drop-in Centre, mostly for visitors who came in the Tea Van. Our big winner was Marie Rasschaert from Sunset Lodge at Evansburg. We had 14 people this time.

August 7 we had our regular whist drive. Our winner for ladies was Winnie Martin. The low was Anna Pawiuk. High for the men was Richard Clemmer. Low was Walter Zaslewicz.

On Aug. 8 I went to the Wishing Well Apartments and played whist. There were four tables.

On Aug. 10 we had our cribbage game with 4½ tables. High for the ladies was Elizabeth Saubek with a perfect crib score. Low was Bertha Elliott. High for the men was Herb Leager. Low was Robert Elliott. Shirley Cripps came for a short visit.

August 11 was a quiet day but in the evening we had a couple of visitors Meat Healy some of you folks would remember Bernice Smith. She is now Mrs. Les Adlem. Les and Bernice dropped in for a visit. We hadn't seen them since Bill Robinson and I went to B.C. for Cindy Lee's wedding around five years ago, so we had a lot to catch up on. What they are home they are at Swartz, Manitoba.

I tried out Bill's birthday present, his camera.

On August 12 a bunch of us went out to Easyford Park for a wiener roast and games for the day. There were two groups playing horseshoes. Some were having a sing-song and some of us were playing lawn darts. Anna Pawiuk and Emma Miller were our first winners in lawn darts. Then we had a peanut shelling contest with even mitts on. The winner for ladies was Josephine Evanishot and for the men there was a tie between Cal Bartlett and Walter Zaslewicz, who still have to collect their prizes. A good time was had by all.

On August 15 we had our whist drive with five tables. High for the men was Fred Dalziel. Low was Walter Zaslewicz. High for the ladies was Anna Pawiuk and low was Edith Norquay. We had a box load of people come from Sunset Lodge at Evansburg to play bingo. Real sorry, folks that there was nobody there. If you would please let me know when and how many bingo players you have coming. I know we'll make an effort to be there. For the last while we have walked, but we only had one or two extra to play. Good to see Bobby Agar home again. Blanche Jensen and Barbara Schenke are back in hospital.

On August 15 a few of us went down to the Stangrit-Le Lodge along with Betty Christenson and Mary McGinnis for a sing-along. There were not too many of us, but I didn't everyone had a good time. In the evening Bill and I went to the Wishing Well Apartments and played bingo.

Recreation

THE UMPIRE AT the playoff games between Drayton Valley Riggers and the Stony Plain Kings has been taking his fair share of flack from players on both teams, but last Tuesday's puke is Drayton Valley saw the ump, Helmer Hofmann, get it from both sides. In the photo on the left, he takes some words from Stony Plain's catcher, while on the right, Hofmann explains a point of ball diamond law to Herman Wiebe of the Riggers.

Director plans community approach

By Chris Shanahan

Getting the community involved is a key to putting Drayton Valley's recreation department back on the right track, according to the new recreation director, Rene Sainsbury.

Ms. Sainsbury plans to use a "community development approach" to get local communities to plan and run their own recreational activities.

She says the town would supply the organizational and financial support to get the community projects off the ground, but then it would be up to the local groups to carry out the programs.

Ms. Sainsbury says public meetings will begin in September in order to organize a plan of attack. One activity that could be run by the community she says, is a mini-olympics.

Despite some initial confusion as to when she was to begin her recreation duties, Ms. Sainsbury says she compromised in a meeting with mayor Bob Mayhew and other town officials.

For now, she's handling the job on a part-time basis, coming in from her home in Edmonton three days a week. She'll take over full-time in September, and is now in the process of relocating in the Drayton Valley area.

After the town has gone through three recreation directors in the past 2½ years, Ms. Sainsbury wants to make sure she doesn't get caught up in any of the mismanagement that has preceded her.

"I'm going to start from a zero base to work on recreation within the community," she says. "Hopefully using this approach we can build the recreation department. I feel we can do it, I feel positive it's going to go upwards."

Ms. Sainsbury is certainly not short of experience in the field of recreation, having accumulated over 10 years of related work. She has her degree in recreation administration from the University of Alberta, and has served three years with the city parks and recreation department in Edmonton, working with six small inner-city communities.

Her experience also includes a stint as recreation director for the large Edmonton House apartment complex.

At first, Ms. Sainsbury admits she was worried about the various problems the town has been having, in particular the raft of employee resignations. She was told she would get the full support of the town in her work, but so far she says it's hard to determine if this is a reality or not.

Ms. Sainsbury says that while there was a budget increase in her area, the funding for parks and administration has actually gone down. Therefore, faced with a money shortage, she plans to "find money elsewhere," including grants from the County of Parkland and some provincial and federal money.

In the future, Ms. Sainsbury says she would like to see an indoor swimming pool in town, plus a new arena, dock for the area.

For now, she says the pool in Rotary Park is going to be renovated, paid for by a federal Neighborhood Improvement grant of $50,000. She adds that the arena will undergo a major overhaul, including work on the ice compressor machine and repairs to the boards.

Battle continues

By Chris Shanahan

The Drayton Valley Riggers are making things hard on themselves in their bid for the championship in the Sturgeon Mea's Fastball League (SMFL).

The Riggers were unable to take the championship in front of home town fans last week, and had to head back to Stony Plain on Tuesday for the deciding game in the best-of-three final.

On August 12, Stony Plain Kings were a totally different ball club than the one that was bombed 9-3 in the series opener.

Led by their ace pitcher who missed the first game due to a suspension, the Kings displayed a steady defence to take the win.

Rigger batters had their problems with Bill Stony Plain pitcher, but-using nice defensive plays by the Drayton Valley club kept the game close.

The contest went scoreless until the fifth inning, when the Kings scored on a sloppy play by the Rigger infield. Even though there appeared to be no play, a wild throw to second in an attempt to nail a Stony Plain base runner allowed the runner to score.

Lee Shedsky tossed his usual steady game for the Riggers, keeping the Stony Plain sluggers handcuffed for most of the game. On the few deep balls he gave up, the Drayton Valley outfield covered up, particularly Darrel Fuechtman, with a couple of nice grabs in deep centre field.

The Riggers tied the game 1-1 in the seventh. Wayne Hawkes made it to second with a standup double, and then Gordy McDermott poked a single to move Hawkes to third. The Rigger base runner eventually made it home on a dropped ball.

An excellent throw by fielder Don Sharlzik to the plate saved the game in the ninth, and it was called after the ninth tied 1-1. The game was continued in Drayton Valley on Thursday night.

Dreams of taking the league title at home fell apart in the top of the tenth inning. Rigger fielders who had played so well all Wednesday dropped three balls in a row, giving Stony Plain three unearned runs. Before they were finished, the Kings had built up a 5-1 lead.

In the Riggers' half of the tenth, a demoralized club couldn't get anything together at the plate and took the loss.

Rigger coach Jerry Harvey, who had just returned from his holidays in time for Thursday's extra inning, was extremely dejected after the loss.

"I feel depressed and sick about the defensive errors that were made. I was destroyed and it made me wonder why I came back from my holidays to watch this," he said.

Harvey is still confident, however, that Drayton Valley can take the league title to Stony Plain.

"We'll get 'em back in Stony," he added.

Colts take series lead

Displaying the power that earned them top spot during the regular season in the Oilfield Baseball League (OBL), the Easyford Colts blasted Drayton Valley Oilers 8-2 in the first game of a best-of-five final.

In the game played in Easyford on August 13, the Colts used strong batting to power their way to the big win.

The Drayton Valley club, who posed the main challenge to Easyford throughout the season, didn't appear to be ready for the championship opener.

Other player spotlighted Frank Swap made no excuse

WATCHING THE PLAY intently, umpire Jerry Harvey gets ready to make the call on the close play at the plate. The catcher for the Drayton Valley Legionettes gloved the ball just as the charging team runner reached home. Legionettes take title

By Chris Shanahan

The best Drayton Valley Legionettes put in a good all-round performance on Saturday and Sunday, to capture the A side championship in a ladies' fastball tournament played at West Valley Park.

In an exciting A side final played on Sunday, the Legionettes fought back from an early 4-0 deficit to take the win over Smith International of Edmonton 8-4.

The local ladies pounded in five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to clinch the game and take the tourney title.

Legionette coaches were pleased with the way the club played throughout the tourney, saying everybody on the team contributed to the win.

The Legionettes used strong pitching, hitting and fielding to go undefeated over the two days. In the semi-final, they downed Edson 7-3, and in round-robin play on Saturday blasted Thorsby 15-5 in six innings.

In the B side final, Jasper Jokers downed McNary Oilettes 6-1.

Other local ladies' clubs in the tourney didn't fare quite as well as the Legionettes.

Drayton Valley Homegrown won by default when Hinton dropped out of the event, but then were zapped 23-1 on Sunday by Eskimo Welding of Edmonton.

Black Gold 79's of Drayton Valley made it to the semi-finals of the B side, where they lost 10-4 to the eventual B winners, Jasper Jokers.

Oldtimers take silver

The Drayton Valley Oldtimers baseball club won four of their five games to take the silver medal in the Twilight Provincial Championships, played in Bow Island on August 7, 8 and 9.

Fourteen teams, made up of players 35 and over, took part in the modified round-robin tournament to decide the Alberta oldtimer championship.

Drayton Valley won the round-robin play in their division, defeating Czar, Hinton and Westlock. The local oldtimers then went into the playoffs with the other three division winners.

Drayton Valley downed Bow Island in the semi-finals, but were unable to withstand the strong bats of the St. Albert club in the final.

In their first game against Czar, the Oldtimers got off to a slow start. It wasn't until the third inning that their bats went to work, when a single from Donald Martin scored two runs to set Drayton Valley ahead 3-1.

The Oldtimers managed to count one run in each of the next three innings to take the win 5-1.

The local team had little trouble with the Nanton club. They jumped into a quick 4-0 lead while Doug Danke homered in the first to drive in three runs. Ken Shepherd slammed another homer in the second inning to score two more.

Consistent batting and hands-up defence continued for the next three innings, as Drayton Valley went on to post an impressive 13-5 victory in five innings.

Drayton Valley had things well in hand in the third game against Westlock as they built up a 10-0 lead by the fourth inning. However, Westlock battled back in the final three innings to make things close, finally bowing to Drayton Valley 14-13.

Dave Berscharaces hit the only home run in the Westlock game, and Ron Baird went three-for-three to lead the team.

Two doubles and a single from Raymond Hutchinson and another pair of doubles from Merle Baird powered the local club to a 14-5 win over Bow Island in the semi-final.

In the final, the team combined for a total of 11 hits, including two singles each by Donald Martin and Merle Baird, but this wasn't enough to hold off the steady St. Albert team.

St. Albert played strong ball for six innings to down Drayton Valley 16-3 and take the gold medal.

High River won the bronze medal by defeating Bow Island in the consolation final.

Strong pitching, led by Raymond Hutchinson and backed up by Dave Barnardeau, Merle Baird, Gordon Tucker, Al Morgan and Ron Baird contributed to the oldtimers' win.

Drayton Valley's bats were in good shape during the championship, as they chalked up a total of 56 hits for a team average of .355.

on for the club's performance, simply saying they "played terribly."

"We had no life, no spirit and the guys looked like they didn't come to play ball," he said.

The Oilers hoped to redeem themselves in the second game played at West Valley Park on Tuesday.

The third game of the series will be played back in Rosyford tomorrow (August 20) at 6:30 p.m.

Games slated for Monday

Management of the Drayton Valley M&R Trucking Commanders have proposed a Monday night home game during the upcoming 1981-82 Junior B hockey season.

The Commanders will play in the five-team western zone of the Central Alberta Junior B Hockey League (CAJBHL).

General manager Ernie Stables has presented the team's ice time requirements to the town's recreation department, and he's hoping the club will get the town's co-operation. The club plans to hold practices on Wednesday nights, and have rotating home-and-away games on weekends.

Due to the rotating weekend games, the club will average 2½ games per week.

The Commanders will start their dry-land training on September 14, relying heavily on the facilities at the Rec Plex.

The roster is open to players midget age and up (ages 15 to 21). Anyone interested in playing for the Commanders can register with Stables at Rex's Radio at 542-4228. They can also contact co-coaches Les Sinclair at 542-2767 or Jim Forbes at 542-5468.

Management is now working out the details of producing a 60-page program for home games, as well as the printing of a season ticket pass.

The Commanders' season opener is slated for October 31.

Thank You

From the Tomahawk and District Club; and the Rodeo Committee a big thanks to the R.C.M.P. and County Police

All those ladies, men and youths who donated their time, effort, material and machinery in fencing, welding, painting, grass cutting, car parking, electrical work, conveners, gate and booth help.

To the stock supplier, Howard Thompson, clowns, arena and stock help, timers and announcers and ticket sellers. To all donators of buckles, moneys and greased pigs as well as those transporting, erecting and taking down the tent.

To Christenson Enterprises for donation of a portable welder and Frank Norton for use of a power generator all of which helped to make the 1981 Tomahawk Jackpot Rodeo a big success.

A Special Thanks to the Andex Oil Company for the prompt donation of lengths of pipe for the Tomahawk and District Club Sports Ground fence

Flag football starts

The Pembina Flag Football League is set to move into its seventh season of play with a field of four teams.

Mines one team that dropped out from last year, the league is now made up of the Panthers, Saints, Crude and Brewers.

Teams will play a six game regular season, with semi-finals going on September 26. The final for the Woodland Chrysler cup is slated for October 4.

Regular season play will kick off with a double-header on August 29, with Saints taking on Crude and Brewers going against Panthers.

Bruce Clemmer, league organizer, says two weekend double-headers are among some of the innovations this season.

Clemmer says he's interested in taking on someone to look after game statistics, so there could be an awards dinner at the end of the season to honor leaders in categories like throwing and receiving.

He also says the league is interested in having official referees handle games this season.

rollerskating, Ms. Sainsbury says "things aren't as bad as they look," because there are hidden costs that have only now been included as part of the budget.

Ms. Sainsbury sees recreation as service for the people, and stresses that her basic approach is "aimed at breaking even, not making a profit."

"We have to realize that you can run recreation as a business, but you're not going to make a lot of money," she said.

She also says many neighborhood parks are in desperate need of some work, and should be substantially upgraded. Especially in MacKenzie Park, Ms. Sainsbury says, there should be things like trees and benches put in to make it a better place for everyone.

Roundup®. It can be one of your most versatile tools.

Wherever you use it, Roundup® herbicide by Monsanto controls tough emerged weeds — right down to the roots — so they can't grow back. Yet Roundup has no carryover. And it won't wash or leach out of treated areas to injure crops or other desirable vegetation.

Reach for Roundup to control both annual and perennial weeds in your zero-till management program. Use Roundup as a spot treatment to control tough weeds like quackgrass right in the crop, or Canada thistle on summer-fallow land. After harvest, Roundup controls quackgrass, which means easier tillage the following spring. And don't forget general farmyard cleanup around shelterbelts, headlands and buildings. In all kinds of places, nothing works like Roundup!

Japanese yoga trims

By [redacted]

I was down in the laundromat with my small daughter when a large older woman came in. She took one look at my little one, and exclaimed loudly, "My, you are so fat!"

The child promptly hid under the table.

She finally came out again when I bent over and whispered, "That lady is much fatter than you, and she is not even polite."

After all, a person is a person whether old or young, fat or thin.

If, however, you have been on a reducing diet, and are looking for exercises to firm up quickly, you may like the Okido system of yoga.

Okido is the Japanese yoga. The movements are done rapidly, and each movement is repeated for four counts of 10 or 40 times. The counting is done aloud and forcefully to promote a rapid exchange of oxygen.

For abdominal firming, try the leg lift. Lie on the back with the arms overhead grasping either a heavy piece of furniture or the ankles of a partner.

Keep the legs together and the knees straight. Raise the legs counting, "one, two," etc. When you reach 10, start with one again for four counts up to 10.

Relax completely. If your back is tired, bend the knees.

For the back hip, stand facing a wall with the front of the body resting against it. Bend the left knee. Kick back with the left leg.

Count up to 10, then do 10 kicks on the right side, 10 on the left again, and finish with 10 on the right side. Remember to count loudly.

For general streamlining, do the cat-stretch.

Begin on your hands and knees. Bend the left knee to touch the forehead, counting one. Stretch the leg out and up and back. Every time your knee comes to your forehead count, up to 10, then change sides. Do 40 stretches.

Still on the hands and knees, do the hydrant. The name is obvious. Bring the left knee to rest against the upper left arm.

Kick forward with the left foot. Each kick, count one, up to 10. Change sides. Do 40 kicks.

When doing the exercises, do only as many repetitions as you can [redacted] too much strain until you have trained your muscles.

The Japanese yoga is also useful as a warm-up.

Archery season begins

By Hap Hunter

Today is the beginning of the archery season and I wonder how many of you readers who are bow hunters have tuned your equipment.

Ideally, for the past couple of months you have done at least a half hour's practice every day.

Have your sharpened your broadheads to a razor edge, or replaced the insertable razor cutting edges? Have you coated the cutting edges with Vaseline?

I heard an interesting story about coating the cutting edges with Vaseline. Seems this fellow told someone the reason archers coat the edges with Vaseline was because it acted as a lubricant and helped the sharp edges do a better job of cutting!

The reason an archer coats the razor edges of an arrowhead is so oxidation will not dull them. It is surprising how dull a razor sharp edge will become over a period of time if it is not protected.

A good amount of time ought to be spent checking over your hunting arrows. Make sure they are straight. Check the knocking points and fletching to make sure they are tight and in line. Spin the arrow to make sure the arrowhead is on straight.

Check over your bow. If it is a compound, a little WD 40 on the wheels and pulleys will help.

Is the bow string in good shape? Do you have an extra string which has been used?

A new string which has not been "shot-in" will stretch and if it has not been stretched your sighting will be off.

Make sure your bow is camouflaged. The best way to do this is to use flat spray paint.

Spray the bow a solid color and let it dry. A light brown or beige is good. Take some leaves of various configurations (ideally from the area in which you hunt) and lay them on the surface of the bow in an irregular pattern.

Now take the darker spray and apply it over the leaves. When this dries, shake the leaves off and you will have a nice camouflage pattern.

From the Gun Rack

One fellow I know even went so far as to fasten plastic ferns and leaves on his hat and hunting jacket. To see this apparition walking down a road was indeed something to behold! When he stood up against a bush he disappeared from sight. He took photos of this get-up and will defy you to pick him out. It is not as absurd as it sounds, believe me!

Masking scent is a good thing too. Remember, however, that there are no apple orchards around here so don't use that masking scent.

There are many masking scents available and one very effective one comes in two bottles. Separately they are not bad but mix a couple of drops and the mess takes on the aroma of a skunk. It works but you may have to walk home alone.

Pick your blinds carefully, practice with your bow, know your area and your chances of success are increased.

Even if you do not bag any game I guarantee you will have enjoyable times in the field.

In archery you will see more game and fewer hunters in the woods than at any other time.

In my day of late, fast cars and lots of noise, a quiet day in the woods is a welcome respite.

Successful pickling

The Homemaker by Janice McGregor Alberta Agriculture 542-5368

To ensure acceptable quality and bacteriological safety of the finished pickle product, you must follow recommended procedures. Ingredients, time and money may be wasted if you use outdated or careless canning procedures.

Fill the jars firmly and uniformly with the pickle product. Avoid packing so tightly that the brine or syrup is prevented from filling around and over the product. Be sure to leave head space at the top of the jar, as recommended in the recipe.

Wipe the rim and threads of the jar with a clean, hot cloth to remove any particles of food, seeds or spices. Even a small particle may prevent an airtight seal.

The two-piece metal cap (flat metal lid and metal screw band) is the most commonly used closure. To use this type of closure, place the lid on the jar with the sealing compound against the glass. When the band is screwed tight, this lid has enough "give" to let air escape during processing. Do not tighten screw band further after processing.

If liquid has boiled out of jar during processing, do not open it to add more liquid, because spoilage organisms may enter. Seal the jar just as it is.

Pickle products require heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage, and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color and texture. Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath.

Heat processing is recommended for all pickle products. There is always danger of spoilage organisms entering the food when it is transferred from kettle to jar. This is true even when the utmost caution is observed and is the reason open-kettle canning is not recommended.

Pack pickle products into glass jars according to directions given in the recipe. Adjust lids. Immerse the jars into actively boiling water in canner or deep kettle. Be sure the water covers an inch or two above tah jar tops; add boiling water if necessary, but do not pour it directly on the jars. Cover the container with a close fitting lid and bring the water back to boiling as quickly as possible. Start to count processing time when water returns to boiling, and continue to boil gently and steadily for the time recommended for the food being canned. Remove jars immediately and complete the seals if necessary.

Cool the jars top side up, on a wire rack, several inches apart to allow for free circulation of air. Keep the jars out of a draft. Do not cool.

Cool for 12 to 24 hours; remove metal screw bands carefully; then check jars for an airtight seal. If the centre of the lid of the two-piece metal cap has a slight dip or stays down when pressed, the jar is sealed. Another test is to tap the centre of the lid with a spoon. A clear ringing sound means a good seal. A dull note, however, does not always mean a poor seal. Check for airtight seal by turning jar partly over. If there is no leakage, the jar may be stored.

If a jar shows signs of leakage or a poor seal, use the product right away, or reseal it. To reseal, empty the jar, repack in another clean jar, and reprocess the product as before.

The metal screw bands from the two piece metal caps may be used again. Remove them from the jars as soon as jars are cool. Sticking bands may be loosened by covering with a hot, damp cloth for a short time.

The metal lids from the two-piece metal caps may be used only one time.

Wipe the jars with a clean, damp cloth, and label with name of product and date.

Store the canned pickles in a dark, dry, cool place where there is no danger of freezing. Freezing may crack the jars or break the seals, and let in bacteria that cause spoilage. Protect from light to prevent bleaching and possible deterioration of flavor.

Always be on the alert for signs of spoilage. Before opening a jar, examine it closely. A bulging lid or leakage may mean that the contents are spoiled.

When a jar is opened, look for other signs of spoilage, such as spurting liquid, mold, disagreeable odor, change in color, or an unusual softness, mushiness, or slipperiness of the pickle product. If there is even the slightest indication of spoilage, do not eat or even taste the contents. Dispose of the contents so that they cannot be eaten by humans or animals.

After emptying the jar of spoiled food, wash the jar in hot, soapy water and rinse. Boil in clean water for 15 minutes.

Operations must commence within 24 months of the sale date of DTAW85001 on a timber licence issued under this Deciduous Timber Allocation Certificate unless otherwise approved by the Assistant Deputy Minister.

In addition to the qualification requirements, the following conditions apply:

1. Deciduous timber harvested from the Deciduous Timber Allocation shall be manufactured at a plant location specified by the Minister.

2. Deciduous timber having a stump diameter of 17.0 cm (7 inches) or larger measured 30.0 (12 inches) above ground level and containing 2.8 meters (9 feet) or more of stem to a 10.0 cm (4 inch) top or to the point of heavy branching must be cut unless decay exceeds 50% of the gross tree volume.

3. Operations must be conducted to avoid damage to any young coniferous growth that occurs in mixture with deciduous timber except where otherwise designated in an approved Timber Management Plan for the Unit.

4. In mixed deciduous coniferous stands containing merchantable coniferous timber, the deciduous harvesting sequence will be arranged so that the deciduous timber may be cut after the coniferous timber is harvested, unless otherwise approved by the Minister.

5. The Deciduous Timber Allocation Certificate holder may not obstruct or interfere with the operations of the Coniferous Timber Quota Certificate holder in any way.

6. All operations must be conducted and all Crown charges paid in accordance with the requirements of The Forests Act, 1971, The Public Lands Act, The Forest and Prairie Protection Act, and all regulations thereto.

7. Deciduous timber purchased by the holder of the DTAW85001 Certificate in verified amounts from outside sources such as private land, Metis Colonies, Indian Reserves, rights-to-vary as well as from Crown timber licences and permits held by other persons, may be considered as production under this Certificate within the respective five year quandrant period subject to the approval of the Assistant Deputy Minister.

8. No Coniferous timber may be harvested under the Deciduous Timber Allocation (D.T.A.) except where the D.T.A. Holder provides the Department with proof in the form of a written contract showing that the coniferous trees and logs harvested will be sold within twelve (12) months of the date of harvest to a purchaser acceptable to the Minister.

In the event that there is a substantial increase in demand for coniferous timber so the point where demand equals supply, the Minister may disallow any harvesting of coniferous timber by the Deciduous Timber Allocation Holder.

The initial D.T.A. Certificate shall expire April, 30, 2001.

Neither this Certificate or any timber licences issued to the D.T.A. Holder shall be construed to contain any implied warranty or condition as to the quantity, or quality or fitness for a particular purpose of the timber described in the Certificate or licences.

For further details of the competition apply to the Forest Superintendent at Whitecourt, Alberta Director Timber Management Branch, 13th Floor, South Tower, Petroleum Plaza Building, Edmonton, Alberta, or the undersigned.

Passing thoughts on driving

By Joanne Bunger

I am really good at all field work that involves going round and round, like raking hay, but I have a terrible time lining up the hay wagon and hay stooks when we are picking up hay.

Last week a stook jumped in front of the wagon all of a sudden, and it got run over. My man shouted, "It should be illegal for people like you to drive."

"It is," I calmly pointed out. If that hay stook had been alive, I would have been a hit and run driver!

ooo

My eyes got me into trouble a second time.

A goat lady phoned me to say she was doing a clipping demonstration in Evansburg and would pick me up. Since she had to drive right past my gate and I wouldn't be putting her out, I readily agreed. The goat club pays her mileage, I knew, so it was a free ride with no strings attached. No one had to twist my arm.

Two days passed. The goat lady phoned me to say the clipping demonstration was moved to Darwell. Also, she said she had a meeting that day so she couldn't drive me. That was no problem, she went on to say. My sister would drive me.

My sister is not interested in clipping goats and would end up driving a 125-mile round trip to get me there and she can't claim mileage.

I phoned to say "Wha't up?"

My sister said "You know I'd drive you anywhere if you asked me."

"I didn't ask you, and I refuse to have you drive me that far for something I can live without," I said.

I believe the goat lady has now labelled me as unreliable.

ooo

I guess the thing that bothers me most about being a non-driver is the fact that once you agree to let someone drive you somewhere you lose your identity and become a package.

"I can't drive this package after all. Will you pick it up for me?" And they always choose someone who has already driven me too many places. Now, if they chose a friend of theirs and asked this person to drive me as a favor for them, perhaps it would be different. They never do. They always [illegible] drivers so that if something really important comes up, I can get there.

I imagine the really and truly handicapped also get upset when they lose control of a situation and become a package, not a person.

Moral—If you can't drive a person somewhere, tell the person. Don't braveheart someone else into fulfilling the promise you made but can no longer keep.

ooo

The boy's university days are nearly here. Why does he want to go there to learn how to be a dentist so he can spend the rest of his life looking into people's mouths?

I am not sure. Perhaps it is because our only status symbol has been his teeth. He was born with the world's crookedest teeth and we had two choices. We could have him spend his entire life wearing a face mask or we could try to get some order out of the chaos in his mouth. They don't allow face masks in classrooms so we had no choice, really.

We put our money where his mouth is. For a time it was apparent, but ever since he reached the retainer stage I have felt let down.

There are some children who actually are born with teeth as straight as his are now. To look at him you'd never know whether his teeth are the result of heredity or the cause of bankruptcy.

The way science is advancing, I am sure that just about the time he graduates they'll come up with an injection that instantly straightens teeth and another to keep them cavity-free.

Still, the way times are changing, I can't think of a single occupation that has a guaranteed future for the next 40 years.

ooo

The mail strike is over. The bills are coming. At this point I almost wish they had stayed on strike longer.

ooo

The boy worked for a local building contractor for the summer. Two weekends he was home. The first weekend he went to pick up hay and got stuck in the creek. The second weekend he went to pick up hay and the wagon lost a wheel.

"I think there's a jinx on that boy—either that or he doesn't want to work," said my man. He's still marvelling that the boy can hold a job, and this is the boy's third summer employed off the farm.

I don't quite know whether the boy is a lousy worker or whether it's a case of the young bull challenging the old bull on this farm.

ooo

Like father, like son. A relative looked at the boy and said, "You know, he's going to be handsome like his father."

"Don't let him hear you," I said. "He still thinks everyone over 21 is well on the road to retirement."

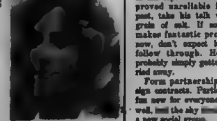
NOW AN XL DEALER BY I.H.C. APPOINTMENT

Start your diet now



We are in the barren five signs of Aries as well as in third quarter and decreasing.

This is a good time to start a reducing diet or to dry anything. In third quarter we should be completing projects and getting those ready for sharing. Aries always favors change and many gardeners may be made.

A lot of folks will become bad-tempered and seem selfish and self-centred Wednesday, [illegible] and [illegible] ning. Blame it on the moon and laugh it off. Don't over-react or you'll be sorry.

The two hours Thursday morning the moon enters the bullish semi-fruitful earth sign of Taurus and is still decreasing.

Work in preparation for fall is not a bad idea. Cut firewood. Put up preserves. Fix roofs and start fencing.

Things done now have a tendency to stay put so fill cracks and holes in walls, cement sidewalks and the like. Get your tools filled, and if you are tired of moving about, move into a new home now. You will take root and stay a long time.

The bad-tempered folks of Aries are now stodgy and patient. Everything simply stays put and no one seems to be interested in anything except staying as he is.

Salesmen, take a rest. Campaigners, stay put, for you won't change minds now. The tendency is to believe with the establishment, to be boringly normal and average.

Breakfast time Aug. 22 we move into the fruitful water sign of Cancer and are still in the fourth quarter and decreasing.

Cancer is the sign when people who tend to overindulge can get carried away. Ex-smokers and ex-drinkers should stay away from temptation. Ditto for food lovers.

Sales will have an advantage now for the normally gullible public will be even more gullible than usual. Don't buy anything that seems to be too good to be true.

Breeding animals? Cancer is the most fertile time of all.

You can can fruits and vegetables or start a new batch of brew now.

Get money to invest? Buy antiques or property.

Whose Lucky Week is It?

Until Aug. 23 every year, Aries are the lucky specimens with the luckiest during third quarter, until Saturday morning being those with birthdays between April 6 and 18. Saturday the luck shifts to those with birthdays ——— April 14 and 20. The lucky number for Aries is four and remember your lucky time for taking chances every year is between July 22 and August 22.

August 24 the Taurus folks begin their lucky month with the very luckiest under fourth quarter until August 30 being those with birthdays between May 15 and 21.

The lucky number for Taurus is nine, and if you prefer to take chances with a partner, choose one born either one of these signs—Pisces, Taurus, Cancer, Virgo, Scorpio or Capricorn.

August 24 is St. Bartholomew's Day. If you are suffering from malaisepy, you should go to the local parish church on St. Bartholomew's eve and listen the night away. Morning will find you cured, or so oldtimers claim.

If haying isn't finished, you will find you can sleep in later and later for the dew never seems to dry before noon anymore. An old poem tells us why:

Dalai Batkoinower
Brings the cold dew.

Clean Up Your Act Pitch-In

Help stop milfoil spread

Planning a fun vacation relaxing, maybe doing some boating and even a little fishing in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley region this summer?

Sounds great! But don't bring back more than you bargained for by accidentally giving the nasty underwater "super weed," Eurasian water milfoil, a fish into this province attached to your boating equipment.

That's the message Alberta Environment wants to put across to travellers this summer in an effort to stop its harmful weed from spreading into this province from B.C.

Forming dense stands, with branched mats on the water surface, Eurasian milfoil can inhibit other plant growth and discourage aquatic animal life around it, clog irrigation and drainage canals and interfere with boating and other recreational water activities.

Since its introduction to North America less than a century ago, Eurasian milfoil has spread rapidly, infesting hundreds of lakes and water systems across the United States, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. In only a decade, Eurasian milfoil infestations have covered some 1,000 hectares of recreational water in the Okanagan Lake region.

Eurasian milfoil can withstand a variety of water, light and temperature conditions (even grows under ice cover), and, once established, is almost impossible to get rid of. Control of its numbers by dredging, harvesting or chemical means is expensive, usually only temporary and sometimes controversial.

That's why environment officials say the best and cheapest solution for Alberta right now is in educating the public to prevent the weed from becoming established in this province.

How?

By making people realize the importance of cleaning all weeds off boats and trailers immediately after use, especially when leaving an infested lake.

Dave Pledger and Rob Borland of Alberta Environment's pollution control division (pesticide chemicals branch) say the need for "pest-infestation controls" can be prevented if each person is aware of the problem and checks his or her boat and related water equipment for weeds regularly.

Removal of all weeds is essential because Eurasian milfoil closely resembles a harmless North American milfoil species and can't be easily identified except by experts.

Of particular concern in Alberta is the danger imposed on irrigation systems, especially in the [illegible] part of the province where aquatic weeds are already a problem. Breeding off nutrient-rich materials that seep into the water. Should Eurasian milfoil extend its grasp into Alberta's irrigation waters, the economic losses and reclaiming costs could be devastating.

Heavy infestations of this weed can cause waterfront property depreciation, tourism and recreation-related revenue losses, and other restrictions on water use such as irrigation blockage.

The Okanagan Valley region of B.C. dependent on tree fruit production—has already experienced some heavy socio-economic losses.

The B.C. government has developed a system of boat checks and taken numerous other measures to control the weed's spread, but with only limited success, so far.

Alberta Environment officials hope the combined efforts in both provinces will keep Eurasian milfoil in check. But this really depends, they say, on whether Albertans are prepared to accept the challenge that lies ahead.

Recipes for saskatoons

By Linda Gibson

This year I have been able to find a few saskatoons where the tent caterpillars haven't struck. On the farm here though, the trees were stripped.

The saskatoon tree is usually small, though it may grow up to 40 feet high. The leaves are alternate, oblong or oval shaped, with sharply toothed edges, and a slightly downy underside. The white flowers have five narrow white petals, and are in loose clusters. The berries are deep purple when ripe.

Saskatoons are sometimes called service berries, June berries or Indian berries.

The berries are delicious straight from the tree, or served with fresh cream. Saskatoons can be canned or frozen for winter use. They can also be used in recipes which require blueberries.

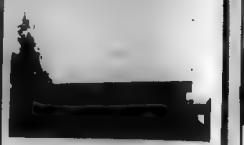
To make saskatoon sod rhubarb jam, use two pounds of juicy saskatoons and two pounds rhubarb, four pounds sugar and one package of Certo crystals.

Clean the rhubarb and cut into ¼ inch pieces. Cover with half the sugar and let sit overnight. In the morning, add the rest of the sugar, and cook for five minutes. Add the mashed saskatoons, and mix. Add the certo, and bring to a boil. Boil for two minutes, then pour into sterilized jars.

To make a saskatoon flan, use three cups of saskatoons, 1¼ cups milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 tsp. vanilla, a pinch of salt, and ½ cup flour.

Beat together the milk, sugar and vanilla, salt and flour. Pour a ½ inch layer of batter into a baking pan. Spread the saskatoons over the layer of batter, sprinkle with sugar, and pour over the rest of the batter to form a smooth layer. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.



Central location, 3 bedroom home. Assume a $65,000.00 mortgage at 10¼%. Sounds good? For more information call Pete or Leona at 542-3223 or 542-2686.

The Recipe Corner

by Wendy Thomson

Last week I bought a bag of beautiful little new potatoes at the Farmers' Market. I cooked up a pot to go with ground beef patties, then made the rest into potato salad to serve with cold meat.

Potato Salad

For every ½ pound of cooked potatoes, mix: 2 Tbsp. mayonnaise; ½ tsp. salt; ½ tsp. vinegar; 1 tsp. minced green onion; ¼ tsp. mustard; pinch pepper; 1 Tbsp. milk.

Add ¼ cup thinly-sliced celery and the cubed potatoes and stir gently. Serve immediately or chill.

Serves 2 or 3.

Herbed Beef Salad

Ingredients: ¼ cup olive oil; ¼ cup vinegar; 1 Tbsp. dried parsley; ½ tsp. marjoram; 2 tsp. prepared mustard; ½ tsp. salt; sliced, cooked beef or venison roast.

Mix all ingredients except cold meat and beat gently in a pot with tight-fitting lid.

Add meat, stir to coat it well, cover and simmer five to 10 minutes.

This can be served warm or cold, and keeps very well in the fridge.

Hamburg Patties

Ingredients: 2 lbs. ground beef; ½ cup evaporated milk; 2 tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. pepper; 1/8 tsp. garlic and/or onion powder (optional).

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl, using hands. Form into 6 or 10 large patties and fry, broil or bake at 425 degrees until done (about 30 minutes in the oven).

6 In Memoriam

In memory of loving husband, father and grandfather, Antoni Ceslawski, who passed away Aug. 29, 1979.

Sweet are the memories that never fade

Of the one we loved but could not save;

Treasured are the memories ever,

Of the happy hours we spent together.

His wife Mary, Jean & Sellmon Hanes and family, Elizabeth and Iven Schmidt and family.
6,1,33c

In loving memory of Abe Freeson. Who passed away Aug. 16, 1981.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still;
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by wife Molly, Son's Bob and Donald and Daughter Nancy and their families.

Moderate interest in timber area

By Dale Lunan

A number of forest industry companies have expressed interest in the Brazeau Timber Development Area, but so far, none have made formal application to the government.

Don Pregren, director of the timber management branch of the provincial department of energy and natural resources, said Friday he has had several requests for information and clarification of the proposal, but he really doesn't expect any formal applications until just before the June 1, 1982 deadline.

"You really can't expect any of the interested parties to come up with a design proposal until at least February or March of next year, and I really don't expect anything concrete until as late as May," Mr. Pregren said.

Most of the companies who have expressed interest have asked for the information package supplied by the timber management branch, and have also requested clarification of the terms of reference to be used in selecting successful proposals. Mr. Pregren declined to reveal which companies have requested such information.

The information package lists the estimated quotas of timber that may be taken from the two blocks of the development area, as well as contact personnel to be used in the application procedure.

The O'Chiese block, which is located roughly between Lodgepole and Rocky Mountain House, has an estimated sustained harvest volume of 124,000 cords of coniferous timber and 154,000 cords of deciduous, mostly poplar, timber.

The Nordegg block, located west and south of the O'Chiese block, can sustain an annual cut of about 306,000 cords of coniferous timber.

Under the terms of reference dealing with the development area, companies can make application for timber management permits on either or both of the blocks. Preference will be given to those proposals which confirm development plans in the Drayton Valley and Rocky Mountain House areas.

"We would like to see developments in those two areas mainly to avoid the necessity of having an entire new town springing up around some sort of plant way off in the wild somewhere," Mr. Pregren said. Such development would be able to utilize the existing infrastructure of the two towns located near the development area, he added.

However, whether or not such development locates within the boundaries of the two towns depends to a large extent on the type of proposals or proposals accepted, Mr. Pregren said.

"If we accept a proposal for the O'Chiese block that includes primarily a saw mill operation, that would probably entail locating the mill closer to the wood supply than if we accepted a proposal including a chemi-mechanical pulp mill," he said.

GB BILBO BAGGINS the Hobbit, Joanne Killips stares in horror at a troll, played by Dave Beesley. The two are part of Journey to Mirkwood, which will be presented this Friday evening at the Eldorado playground. In the production, five actors lead children through Mirkwood in search of treasure. The play is adapted from J.R.R. Tolkien's The Hobbit. (photo by Dale Lunan)

Strike end a possibility

By Dale Lunan

The Yellowhead School Division (YSD) and its clerical workers appear closer than ever to a settlement of the strike by members of local 2185 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

Following a nine hour meeting on Monday aimed at resolving some of the differences that have kept the clerks on the picket lines since June 16, CUPE representative Marilyn Taylor said it is quite possible a tentative agreement could be reached by the end of next week.

"It was a very good meeting; both sides seem to be co-operating a little better, and I think we can possibly reach some kind of agreement at our next meeting," Mrs. Taylor said. That meeting is scheduled for September 3.

Mrs. Taylor said the two sides "aren't that far apart," as far as money goes, and about the only area left for negotiation is a system of implementation of the union's demands and the YSD's offers.
